130 years! Today, Allianz celebrates its birthday. While we haven't organized anything extravagant to mark this milestone, our "birthday" gives us the chance to reflect on what generations of able and diligent Allianzers have built up together over the decades. After more than a century, where do we stand as a business? I'm happy to say we're in good shape – even considering the momentous changes we face as we forge our path into a modern, digital and climate-friendly world. Despite having 130 years of accomplishments behind us, we have just begun.
